

Workplace bullying. If you don't step in, you're supporting it.

JAG 10/1663

Bullying can ruin lives and destroy workplaces. It takes guts to deal with. Both managers and workers have a responsibility to step in to stop it happening.

Organisations are legally required to implement strategies to prevent bullying behaviours in the workplace.

Workplace Health and Safety Queensland can assist you.

An online workplace harassment information tool is available to help managers and workers identify ways to resolve claims of workplace harassment.

More information on workplace harassment is available at: www.worksafe.qld.gov.au.

Set a culture in your workplace to resolve conflict and stop bullying before it happens.
